[] 01. WStock (2020), Job talk should emphasize the teaching philosophy, and the cover letter,
[] 02. SWu (2020), job talk should emphasize a teaching demo, and research.
[] 03. job talk should be 90 minutes (Rand, Research and development), 1 hour 15 minutes, (colleges & universities), 0 minutes, no research paper (private sector), coding tests, data science for economists, policy and research (frb ...),
[] 04. .. statements available from AEA concerning responding to (rare) personal life questions during job talk. Underrepresented populations (as job market candidates) are less familiar to many campuses (including Instructors, staff and students)..
[] 05. Economist adjacent PhD (emphasis presented vs emphasis requested), (and Economist adjacent PhD (nontraditional processes)), Postdocs with employment experience at disadvantage to fresh Economics PhDs with recent teaching experience, when applying for teaching jobs at small colleges), Postdoc, as economist job market candidate, could signal job market search stress. Postdoc, as job market candidate, could signal additional processing of research products before pursuing job market candidacy.
[] 06. Letters of endorsement, recommendation, support are either uniform for multiple economist job applications, or taylorred to each economist job application.
[] 07. Panelist tended to anchor micro job market advise in funding of institution (comment: even though information on additional department funding and/or additional individual funding, different from institute/institution funding is unavailable). Panel differed on emphasis of micro and macro job market advise in Webinar. A panelist suggested that the hired economist should expect a directed work schedule with approximately 1 work day towards research, at an institute/institution.

Webinar on the new Ph.D. Job Market, hosted by the AEA ad hoc Committee on the Job Market

August 25, 2020

To: Members of the American Economic Association
From: Peter L. Rousseau, Secretary-Treasurer

The AEA's ad hoc Committee on the Job Market will host a webinar on the job market for new Ph.D. economists on Wednesday, September 2, from 3:00 – 4:30 p.m. ET. The purpose of the webinar is to share information about the structure and timeline of the job market for new Economics Ph.D.s, and is intended to help job market candidates in 2020-21 as well as their advisors and placement committees. A pre-recorded video is available at <https://www.aeaweb.org/joe/communications> which provides information on the Economics Ph.D. job market, such as timelines, institutions, and general advice. The live 90 minute webinar will then be devoted to Q&A on either the material in the presentation or any other questions about the job market that participants may have. Those answering questions at the webinar include the following:

Aditya Aladangady, Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve
John Cawley, Cornell University
Matthew Gentzkow, Stanford University
Brooke Helpie-McFall, University of Michigan
Elisabeth "Bitsy" Perlman, U.S. Census Bureau
Peter Rousseau, Vanderbilt University and Secretary-Treasurer of the AEA
Max Schmeiser, Head of Data Science at Twitter
Wendy Stock, Montana State University
Omari Swinton, Chair of the Economics Department at Howard University

The pre-recorded video and the link to the live webinar will be available from the committee's webpage: <https://www.aeaweb.org/joe/communications>.

This webinar is free and available to all. Feel free to share with others.
